Live Webcast

North Carolina: 4.00 MCLE Hours

Includes:

1.00 Technology Training

Planned by the NCBA Small Firm & Technology Section

The COVID-19 pandemic has significantly changed how we practice law. Those practicing in a solo or small-firm setting are perhaps some of the most affected practitioners. An effective and efficient use of technology is vital as we plan to re-emerge from the lockdown. This program focuses on the smart use of technology, as well as delegation and dealing with the myriad of problems created by the pandemic.

Re-emerging From the COVID Lockdown

Friday, June 11, 2021

8:55 AM–1:50 PM

8:55 Welcome and Introductions

9:00 How to Work Smarter and Be Happier Using Technology‡

Svenson

Most lawyers want to work less but need to earn more. They also want to have more time for family, hobbies and other things that make life worth living. It might seem like these things are incompatible, but they are not — if you learn to work smarter. Learn how technology can help you work smarter and discover how everything can be done faster, more easily and with much less stress.

10:00 Break

10:10 Delegation Basics: You Can't Do It All Yourself Reach

Delegation can make you a more effective and productive lawyer. This session walks through when to delegate, what tasks to delegate and tools you can use for more efficient delegations.

11:10 Break

11:20 Collaborative Law Techniques for Use in Daily Practice

Sarratt and Woodward

Collaborative law allows parties to find practical solutions to their problems, with a focus on transparency and reducing the adversarial process. Explore how to apply the techniques used in collaborative law to your daily general practice in order to improve the outcome for your client and reduce the stress on you, the attorney.

12:20 Lunch Break

12:50 Contract Issues During and After COVID-19 Kurtz

The pandemic has changed how we handle contracts. This session examines contracting issues occurring during the pandemic, as well as those we may experience long after the pandemic has ended. Topics include how best to advise clients when drafting contracts, enforceability issues such as the eviction moratorium and lease forgiveness, and changes to master agreements beyond force majeure.

1:50 Adjourn
